CAMP BEFORE SEBASTOPOL, July 28 .- Several days have been named for the commencement of the new bombardmant and attack. The number of casualties in the trenches and new works is subject of serious consideration, and, though hardly so great as might be expected from the relative position of the besieged and the besiegers, must act as a strong incentive to the respective commanders to perfect as speedily as possible the preparations for the renewed attack. Some of the new batteries of our Allies, destined to act against the Russian marine, are not yet finished, and a change is also being made in the armament of certain portions of our work, which is not likely to be completed for several days from the present date. The approaches towards the Malakoff, close as they are, will have to be extended still further before the assault can be made with full security. It is wise to bear our daily loss for a while, rather than sacrifice any change that may conduce to a successful end. It is asserted that the disposition of the new batteries is so made and their power is so terrible, and the arrangements of the commanders so matured, that on the next occasion the assault will be undertaken without leaving room for the slightest apprehension re specting the result. The extensive preparations which are in progress, and the care which is being bestowed upon the works on all sides, afford reasonable ground for believing that this conscious ness of approaching success does not proceed

The following is a diary of some of the leading events in front during the last few days:

July 24.—Another hot sunny morning, with an atmosphere equally as oppressive and sultry as it has been for some days past. The empty condition of the water tanks and reservoirs, and condition of the water tanks and reservoirs, and the gradually diminishing flow from the springs near the front, are becoming a source of great inconvenience and anxiety. A great part of the water carried down for use in the trenches last night, had to be brought from the larger reservoir in the Tchernaya valley, connected with the aqueduct to Sebastopol.

The cavalry division have been kept under arms all day, the several regiments being held ready to turn out at a moment's notice. It is said that an attack was looked for in the direction of the Tcherneya. A constant fire has been kept up all day in the batteries.

July 27 .- The fire in the batteries was very heavy, and continued incessantly all night. A Circassian chief, apparently of very high rank, with a staff of five or six attendants, was escorted over the works on the Manelon Vert by a French general officer to-day. The novelty of his costume, equally with that of his followers, who all carried the cartridges for their pistols slung in a row like a necklace, and dependent upon their highly embroidered vests, attracted general atten-

JULY 28.—The fire in the batteries was as heavy and uninterrupted last night as it has been for several nights past. The early part of the night was moonlight and clear; subsequently clouds gathered, and some showers of rain fol-lowed

Our Allies have proved the necessity of keep ing their plans more guarded and secret than be-fore; the circumstances of the repulse on the 18th would seem to warrant the belief of traitors in The French general has now no conthe camp. We were surprised, a few evenings since, to see, while it was yet day, a number of Russian soldiers suddenly debouch from the ravine under the Malakoff, and running up the hill, endeavor to shelter themselves behind some soldiers. to shelter themselves behind some rocks and bushes "en tirailleur." They evidently imagined, from their position, they could turn the flank of the French say by the left, while they themselves remained unexposed. Our soldiers, however, crawling down, succeeded in getting within 200 paces of these sharpshooters, and turned the tables on them most completely, as before the Russians could correct their unfortunate error, we shot down about ten of them. nate error, we shot down about ten of them. According to letters from Rome the French government has represented to the Pope that it is absolutely indispensible that he should make some extensive reforms, in order to allay the discontent which exists amongst all classes of the people: but the Cardinals, after lengthened deliberation on the subject, have refused to do anything. The letters also speak of a plan formed by Mazzini and his party for carrying off the Pope having been discovered by the French and revealed to his holiness. They add that dissensions had arisen between the Austrian and French diplomatic agents at Rome, owing to both being anxious to see a native of their respective countries appointed to the vacant Catholic Patriarchate at Constantinople. Invasion of the Capital .-- Yesterday was the nniversary of the battle of Bladensburg; the treat of our militia from which field has never en considered an event honorable to their wess, though their commander-in chief was, in main, responsible for the inglorious flight. We untrue that some of the fugitives did not stop runabout twenty-one miles from the scene of conflict. The sum total in the loss of men, on the American side, was eighty, while that of the British was two-hundred and forty-nine; so, in the matter of killing, we had largely the victory. This was on the twenty-third of August, 1814; on the day following, the British entered Washington about eight o'clock in the evening; General Ross at their head. He was a wholesale incendiary, and directed the torch to be applied not only to the Capitol, which was then in an unfinished state, but its extensive library, records, and other collections, appertaining not to war, but to peace and civilization. The public offices and the President's house were wantonly sacrificed, together with many private buildings. Even the naval monument, which is now located on the west of the Capitol, but was at that time at the navy yard. did not escape the spirit of demolition. The British endeavored to destroy it by fire, piling combustible material round it. The marks of the flames are yet to be seen on the structure.

The "oldest inhabitants" tell many stories, it an extreme degree disgraceful to the invaders. It was their first visit, and we are satisfied it will be their last of their countrymen to this neighbor-

This barbarous usage irritated as it insulted the American people, and rendered the war popular with all parties.

The flushed and fire-dealing enemy next matured their plans for the capture of Baltimore, but at North Point they met with a repulse that their presumption had not permitted them to anticipate, and their commanding general was slain. to the intelligent object of her charge. Anon, a young man, a member of the household, made his appearance, and he had something to say to the small girl, with an infant in her arms; the newappearance, and he had something to say to the child, which, of course, understood him perfectly well! Next, a lady, supposed to be the mother pproached, held out her hands, and the infant vanted "to come to her." One after another of the adult folks gathered around the baby, and all of them "conversed" with the "sweet little darling." Last of all, came the grandfather, without his hat. He pushed his spectacles up on his forehead, took the baby in his arms, and triumphantly bore it away, into the house. The remainder of the company followed him. Although that's a precious little one, there are a good many like it, in this metropolis.

"THE SPECTATOR." Weekly Journal Published at Wash-ington City.

THE undersigned propose to commence about the first of June next, in the City of Washington, the publication of a weekly newspaper, to be called the SPECTATOR, designed for peral circulation among the people of the United States. Its columns will contain a full digest of the news of the day, foreign and domestic; a weekly review of finance and the markets; a synopsis of the proceedings of Congress during its session; tables of election returns; the impor-tant political action of State Legislatures, and of party conventions; interesting miscellaneous and scientific matter; articles on Agriculture, together with original articles upon the leading topics of the day. Much valuable information relative to the operations of the Executive Departments, together with a weekly list of new patents, will be found in its columns. A large portion of its space will be devoted to light literature, original, and selected. Its location at the political centre of the Union, will afford opportunites always to procure the latest and most reliable information on public affairs.

on public affairs. It is the intention of the undersigned to make the Spectator an acceptable visiter to every house in the Union, and it will therefore not assume on any occasion the position of a partizan paper, nor will it owe any allegiance to men; but entertaining fixed and decided views on questions of political economy, and upon our system of government, it will disseminate and promulgate them as occasion may require—always keeping carefully in view the interests of the country, graying our in view the interests of the country, growing out of foreign as well as domestic affairs.

The Spectator will be printed in quarto form, on good paper and new type; each number con taining eight pages of matter making one volume annually of 416 pages. Each volume will be ac-companied by a full and comple index to its contents, thus making it a most valuable paper for preservation and reference. It will be published every Saturday morning, at $2 per annum, payable always in advance. No paper will be continued beyond the time for which it is paid.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, D. C.

THE next session of this Institution will commence on Monday, the 3d of September, The Preparatory Department and Collegiate course are both conducted by able and experienced Professors, who devote themselves to the moral and intellectual advancement of those confided to their care. A large and spacious building has just been completed to be used exclusively for the accommodation of the younger students. Their dormitory, play grounds, study-hall, classrooms, &c., will be entirely distinct from those of the other students, and officers especially assigned will attend them in their pastimes and preside over their studies. A complete separation will over their studies. A complete separation will thus be effected between the younger and older students, the advantages of which must be apparent to all those who have the least experience in the education of youth.

The Observatory of the College, its extensive Philosophical apparatus, rich and varied Libraries and Cabinet of Minerals, Geological Specimens and Shells, afford to the students of this Institution advantages rarely to be met with.

DROSPECTUS .- SOUTHERN CONSER PROSPECTUS.—SOUTHERN CONSERvative Magazine.—When new aspirants for popular favor are announced, the public have a right to demand the grounds upon which such show of title to their patronage is made. In acknowledgment of this, we trace the customs of parties in the avowal of principles; of religious sects, in the promulgation of creeds; and of persons in all pursuits of life, dependent upon the public for success, in their preparatory expositions of plans and purposes. The customs thus originating, though sometimes abused, are useful and proper, and should not be discarded. And when, in obedience to custom, new plans are proposed, those approving ought not to withhold their encouragement, as too many do, until they see that those approving ought not to withhold their en-couragement, as too many do, until they see that success is sure, for their aid may be needed to secure it. Such a foolish policy as this jeopar-dizes the plan they approve, and hastens its failure; it has defeated many important enterprizes, and has deprived the country of good and useful works. has deprived the country of good and is approved by the public, the support of those approving is of right expected, their approval being solicited only in the view that their more substantial aid will not be withheld.

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PLAN OF THE PROPOSED PERIODICAL. THE SOUTHERN CONSERVATIVE MAGAZINE will occupy grounds but little cultivated by American magazinists. It is believed that a field is open for a periodical of a new and, in some respects, a higher order than has been aimed at in our maga-zine literature. In this belief, and with such an aim, we announce the Southern Conservative

The new magazine will be national and sectional; claiming no merit by virtue of its es-tablishment in the South, but aiming at a higher isefulness and a more general acceptability. It will be Protestant, but not sectarian; opposing religious bigotry or intollerance on the one side, and infidelity on the other-laboring in its teach-ings to advance a closer union between the several branches of the great family of the church.

It will be political, but liberal; owing no slavish allegiance to parties or politicians, it will advocate measures, not men, and will labor only for the success of principles.

It will be progressive, yet sternly opposed to the reckless spirit of innovation so rife in the country—aiming to elevate and advance, not depress; to reform and improve, not to destroy; sacredly adhering to the true intent of our great republican theory, and laboring to advance it to its fullest development.

It will be truly American in tone and sentiment, but will repudiate nothing foreign, merely because so; believing that the good, the useful, and true belong not, par excellence, to any favored people but are the common right of all. It will be the organ of pure conservatism.

It will encourage a high-toned literature, and defeud pure morals in all the social relations of And it will number in its corps of regular cor ributors some of the ablest political and literary writers of the country.

The magazine will be printed on the finest quality of paper, with new type, and in a plain at superior style.

Each number will contain not less than 50 large octavo pages, made up of original articles, con-tributed and editorial—reviews, political and scientific e-says, romances, poetry, &c. We promise much for the new magazine, and we intend to perform it all, and more, if the reading public will give the enterprise a liberal encouragement TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. The Southern Conservative Magazine will be sued, the first of each month, from the office of publication, Nashville or Knoxville, Tennessee and will be furnished to suscribers at four dollars a year, or three dollars if paid punctually in advance. TO LOVERS OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE

THE Advertiser, a Frenchman and graduate of the Polytechnic School of Paris, respectfully offers his services as a teacher of his native tongue to Schools, Classes, and Private Pupils of this city and vicinity. The system he follows to facilitate the acquisition of the French Language, unites in due proportion theory and practice; by which are avoided the difficulties the student often meets with in pursuing one of the many theoretical grammars, not sufficiently showing the idiomatical part of the language, or a practical one, in which the necessary grammatical rules, if not entirely, at least far too much, are neglected. In following these theoretical grammars, the student must have experienced that after having devoted a long time to the mere memorizing of sentences, he find himself in possession of a number of set phrases, valuable it is true, but from which, destitute of landmarks, the slightest deviation must lead him into unknown regions.

The advertiser feels confident in the assertion that the pupil, in adopting his method, may, with TO LOVERS OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE

Corner of 10th street, over Savings Bank. Corner of 10th street, over Savings Bank.

THIS CEMETERY is laid out on the plan of the celebrated Greenwood of New York, and situated on the high ground, distant one and a quarter miles north of the Capitol, North Capitol street, leading directly to the Gateway. This company have received a charter from Congress, appropriating this ground for ever to burial purposes, making a fee title to the purchaser, and prohibiting all encroachments from legislation or otherwise, which is of wast importance to those who wish their dead to repose where they have placed them; for it has become a custom in all cities when the burial ground becomes valuable for other purposes, to sell it, and throw the dead promiscuously into one large pit, and legal measures cannot prevent it, as no titles are given to the ground.
